Red Cross Active in Aid for Service Men

Problems of service men are ironed out in the office of the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Shown above is a serviceman in consultation with Miss Jane Watters, Home Service secretary.

This is one of a series of stories telling about some of the services of the Marion county chapter of the American Red Cross. The series is published to aid in Marion county's part in the annual fund campaign. Sixty-five per cent of the contribution will remain in Marion county to carry on the chapter's work.

A soldier recently requested Home Service to assist him in clarifying status of his furlough. Through an error the military had the soldier listed as being absent without official leave, although soldier's furlough papers stated he was on official leave. Home Service contacted the office of the field director, American National Red Cross where the serviceman was stationed and the situation was clarified for the serviceman.

Red Cross services were given to 747 families of servicemen, veterans and their dependents by the home service department of the Marion county chapter, American Red Cross, for the year 1946. Of this number 215 families were veterans and their dependents.

Extent of Service

Home Service is a program of family service through which the American Red Cross carries out in communities its primary responsibilities to servicemen and veterans and their dependents. Home service makes its services available to veterans and their dependents, during their transition from military service to civilian life, at the same time recognizing that the needs of veterans and their dependents are the responsibility of the entire community and that the best interests of the veteran and his dependents and the community are served when the veteran fully assumes the status of a civilian as soon as possible.

Home Service carries out its responsibilities to veterans through the following functions:

(a) Consultation and guidance which offers counseling service in personal and family problems.

(b) Financial assistance which gives assistance from chapter funds on the basis of need for basic maintenance during the temporary period pending the first receipts of Federal disability or death benefits, and during period when such payments as may be due are delayed or interrupted. Chapter funds may also be used to extend financial assistance on the basis of need to any veteran during his period of transition from military service to civilian life for either basic maintenance or special needs. Citizenship, settlement, or legal residence is not a prerequisite for assistance from Home Service.

(c) Home Service also offers referral services by advising the veteran and his dependents of the agencies in the community offering serices appropriate to their needs, explaining the services offered by such agencies and planning with the appropriate agencies and the applicant for consideration of the problem.

(d) Assistance is also given the veteran and his dependents in presenting claims for pension and other government benefits.

(e) Home Service also supplies information concerning government regulations and legislation affecting veterans and their dependents and concerning community resources.

(f) The veteran and his dependents are also assisted by providing the Veterans Administration with such information as is needed in diagnosis and treatment.

SHERK GIVES HIMSELF UP

Cattle Buyer, Wanted on Bad Check Charge, Surrenders at Bucyrus.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Feb. 22—Edward Sherk, Bucyrus cattle buyer charged with failing to make payments on livestock, merchandise and loans totaling more than $100,000 and subject of a two-week search by law enforcement officers, gave himself up to the Crawford County sheriff today.

He was reported to have rung the door bell at the sheriff's residence at 4 a. m., placed himself in the custody of the sheriff and was taken later this morning to Kenton where a warrant for his arrest had been issued.

Hardin County Sheriff Randall Clark said he had placed Sherk in the Hardin county jail and a hearing before a justice of peace probably would be scheduled Monday. Sherk is charged with issuing a check with insufficient funds for $4,399 on the Kenton Farmers Marketing Corp. Sheriff Clark said.

Two weeks ago four other creditors sought $106,799.88 from Sherk, maintaining he failed to make payments on livestock merchandise and loans. The four who named him defendant in an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed in the federal court in Cleveland were C. W. Speicher of La Fontaine, Ind; Wilford Laycock of Marion, Ind.; Dwayne Garrison of Liberty Mills, Ind., and Leo and Joseph Kirchner of Findlay.

The cattle buyer, who said he had been in eastern New York state, surrendered to the sheriff at 4 a. m. today, but the incident was not announced officially until noon.

"I decided to give myself up," the sheriff quoted Sherk as saying.

Sherk's abandoned automobile was found in Cleveland Feb. 7.

U.S. DEBT REDUCTION ADVOCATES STAY PAT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Advocates of applying to the federal debt $3,000,000,000 of any saving made by a slash in President Truman's budget rejected compromise overtures today by Senator Robert Taft (R-Ohio).

Taft told a reporter he is willing to support writing a $2,000,000,000 debt retirement pledge into whatever resolution the senate votes Monday for reducing the President's $37,500,000,000 spending estimate. The senate resolution is expected to call for a $4,500,000,000 budget cut.

But Senator Knowland (R-Calif), chief sponsor of the move to guarantee the $3,000,000,000 debt payment, said he isn't in a compromising mood.

When the house voted earlier in the week a promise to lop $6,000,000,000 off Mr. Truman's request, it provided only that a "portion" of any spread between government income and outgo should be channelled back into the treasury to meet previous obligations.

Taft reiterated his determination that at least $3,500,000,000 should be left to cut income taxes an aggregate of 20 per cent.

He said that if the senate votes to hold budget cuts to $4,500,000,000, the resulting $33,000,000,000 budget pledge would be $6,000,000,000 less than expected income.

The Ohio senator said he is willing to see a minimum of $2,000,000,000 of that amount applied on the debt, but that he doesn't want so big a payment made that the deflationary effects will be felt too strongly and too rapidly.

Camera Which Prints Finished Picture in One Minute Shown

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—A revolutionary new camera, which turns out a finished picture, one minute after the shutter is snapped, accomplishing in a single step all the processing operations of ordinary photography, was demonstrated yesterday.

The camera, which can be carried by anyone, was announced to the Optical Society of America by its inventor, Edwin H. Land of Boston, the discoverer of polaroid.

Several types have been built, Land said, and announcement will be made in a few months about when the cameras will be available and what they will cost.

The inventor, demonstrating a portrait type and also one of the size frequently carried by news photographers, said the process could be adapted to any camera and possibly to making motion pictures.

Fully Finished Picture

The camera produces a fully-finished picture, of the same quality as if developed and printed by dark room technique.

"With the new cameras," Land's announcement said, "it will be possible for the amateur to make a snapshot and compare it with the scene before he leaves the spot. He can ask his subject to hold the pose until he sees the result. If he is not satisfied with the expression on the subject's face, or anything else, he can retake it immediately and correct the fault.

"The new cameras will make it possible for anyone to take pictures anywhere, without special equipment for developing and printing, and without waiting for his films to be processed. They can be used for making quick snapshots of the family, quick X-ray pictures, quick pictures of horse race finishes or anything else that can be photographed."

Chemicals Held Secret

The one-step camera, which uses ordinary silver-bromide film, has its secret in a tiny capsule of chemicals that produces all the ordinary developing and printing steps inside the camera.

After the picture is snapped, the inventor explained, the film rolls onto a piece of special photographic paper, with the two face to face, and in contact, and with the capsule between them. The capsule breaks and the contents spread between the film and photographic paper.

The capsule spreads out the ordinary developer of the silver film and the "hypo" so familiar to photographers. Also contained are chemicals which control the size of the silver grains that make the picture, the color of the print, that prevent discoloration, and that make the process work over a wide range of temperatures.

LAWYER SAYS MINISTER'S ARREST TERRIFIC MISTAKE

States Police Erred in Charging Him with Arson.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 22—Attorney Harry V. Meissner today described as a "terrific mistake" the arrest of the Rev. Dr. John Lewis, 72, pastor of one of Milwaukee's oldest and largest churches, on a charge of arson in connection with a $150,000 fire at the church he has been pastor for nearly 12 years.

The elderly pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church appeared in district court on the arson charge yesterday and was released on $1,000 bond pending a hearing March 10, Meissner, his counsel, said the district attorney's office was "wrong as it could be in the interpretation it had placed on evidence in the fire."

Dr. Lewis, who has held pastorates and college posts in both the United States and Great Britain, has denied the charge in an oral statement to Joseph Tierney, assistant district attorney.

Tierney said the warrant was issued upon complaint of William Rossiter, deputy state fire marshal, who alleged that Dr. Lewis had purchased two quarts of kerosene on Jan. 23, two days before the fire in the church near the downtown district.

BACKERS STILL HAVE HOPES FOR LILIENTHAL

Believe He'll Win Post Despite Opposition by Senator Taft.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Supporters of David Lilienthal for confirmation as chairman of the atomic energy commission expressed confidence today he will win despite a blast from one of the senate's top Republicans, Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Taft announced he is going to vote against Lilienthal because he considers him a "power-hungry bureaucrat" who is "temperamentally unfitted" for the position and "too soft on issues connected with Communism and Soviet Russia."

Senator McMahon (D-Conn), a member of the atomic energy commission which is considering the former TVA head's nomination, commented to a reporter.

"While I recognize Senator Taft's influence and power as chairman of the Republican policy committee, I do not believe his stand will be persuasive with respect to his colleagues in the face of the record of the hearing, which demonstrates Mr. Lilienthal's complete suitability."

2 Join Support

Two Democratic senators—Taylor of Idaho and Chavez of New Mexico—announced their support for Lilienthal today. Taylor declared that charges of leftist leanings laid against the nominee by Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), are "small potatoes—that's the best term we have for it out in Idaho."

Scientist Albert Einstein also has given his support to Lilienthal.

In a message read last night over a New York station, Einstein said failure of the senate to confirm Lilienthal would cause "grave consequences * * * in the field of international politics."

He said Lilienthal's nomination

Budget Slash To Get Test

Request for Relief Funds Must Pass Economy-Minded Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—President Truman's request for a $350,000,000 foreign relief appropriation set the stage today for an early test of how far an economy-bent congress will go in backing up United Nations' commitments with funds and food.

The initial reaction on Capitol Hill was favorable. It was prompted, at least in part, by the administration's decision to part company in relief work with its wartime UNRRA associates and pursue the mission of mercy independently.

The house foreign affairs committee ordered hearings on a measure authorizing the appropriation soon after the Chief Executive's appeal reached congress yesterday. Committee approval, with likely limitations on where and how the money is spent, is deemed a certainty.

The real hurdle will come when a bill to set aside the money itself reaches the house appropriations committee, whose Republican members are fighting to slash a big chunk off President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget.

"It seems to me that in the two years since the war has ended something should have been done to get these liberated people back on their feet and at work," Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the appropriations group told a reporter.

Chairman Eaton (R-NJ), of the house foreign affairs committee already has introduced a bill requiring countries which receive relief to:

1. Guarantee that it will be distributed without discrimination as to race, creed or political belief.

2. Permit representatives of the U. S. government, press and radio "to observe freely and report fully" on distribution and utilization of the relief.

3. Furnish the United States with prompt information on the use, distribution, importation and exportation of any supplies affecting their needs.

TRUMAN LEADS U. S. IN WASHINGTON FETE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—President Truman led the nation today in ceremonies honoring the memory of George Washington.

The Chief Executive motored to Mt. Vernon to lay a wreath on Washington's tomb, commemorating the 215th anniversary of the birth of the first president.

Veterans organizations were in charge of the ceremonies at the Virginia shrine overlooking the Potomac river, as well as parades, banquets and parties that marked the national capital's observance.

The presidential yacht Williamsburg, gleaming in a new coat of white paint in contrast to the battleship gray so familiar during war days, preceded the President to Mt. Vernon and was ready to take him and members of the White House staff aboard for a weekend cruise on the Potomac.

U. S. Sugar Ration Jumped 17 Pounds Per Person Over '46

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—The United States accepted today a division of the world sugar supply for 1947 which will give Americans an increase of about 17 pounds apiece over last year.

This country's share of the world's export supply, coupled with its own production, will provide a per capita supply of about 9 pounds of refined sugar this year. Consumption last year was 73 pounds, while usage in the prewar period was about 97 pounds.

The allocation was made last night by the international emergency food council, and inter-governmental agency representing more than 20 nations, charged with the responsibility of apportioning scarce foods among the nations of the world.

Of the 1947 per capita supply of 90 pounds, individual consumers probably will get 35 pounds through ration stamps and the remaining 55 pounds in the form of candy, bakery products, other foods, soft drinks and similar products.

Last year the individual consumer ration allowance was 25 pounds.

EAST IN GRIP OF COLD WINDS

Falling Mercury Moves In as Snowstorm Fatal to 48 Dies.

By The Associated Press

Freezing winds and falling temperatures gripped the east today moving in the wake of a snowstorm which blew out to sea yesterday after causing at least 48 deaths and burying the eastern seaboard from the Carolinas north to Maine under a thick coating of white.

The storm raged in many sections for almost 24 hours, snarling air and surface transportation and retarding industrial activities.

Snow drifts on roads to Lake Success, Long Island, N. Y., forced postponement of a meeting of the United Nations security council yesterday.

Traffic accidents on drift-choked highways and over-exertion from snow shoveling accounted for most of the deaths. The toll by states: New Jersey 13, District of Columbia 3, Pennsylvania 17, New York 3, Connecticut 8, Massachusetts 2, Delaware 1, Maine 1.

A record fall of 27 inches was reported at Dickenson county, Va.

In New York City, snow crews worked Thursday night, Friday and today to keep primary arteries open, but secondary highways remained choked in drifts.

Many schools were closed in a dozen states. Railroad travel was returning to normal today.

Even the stork had his troubles. In Philadelphia, police cars and emergency trucks were used to get 25 expectant mothers to hospitals. In Saugus, Mass., Mrs. Edward Lamler, snowbound in her home, gave birth to a boy with two policemen acting as midwives.

Heavy Snowfall Blocks Rails, Roads in England

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 22—Heavy snowfalls blocked rail lines and highways in a wide area of England today. Isolated villages in the Yorkshire dales and delayed coal shipments from south Wales to industrial areas blacked out by a shortage of fuel and power.

Temperatures throughout the British Isles ranged from 10 to 16 degrees below normal and weather forecasters said the severe weather would continue "at least" for several days.

On the continent, however, temperatures moderated after more than a month of bitter cold.

BLAST WRECKS N. Y. FACTORY

Fire, Explosion Kills Missouri Family; 4 Injured in Columbus.

By The Associated Press

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 22—At least 12 persons were injured today when a terrific explosion demolished a two-story knitting machinery manufacturing plant and two other buildings and shattered windows in a seven-block area in downtown Utica.

Police listed one man missing.

Five persons were hospitalized and others were treated near the scene for cuts and minor injuries.

Cause of the explosion was not officially determined. Fire Chief Leo R. Barry theorized the blast may have been caused by a break in a gas line under the manufacturing plant, occupying an area approximately 60 by 100 feet.

Plate glass windows of more than 35 stores in the vicinity were shattered.

Fire broke out immediately afterward and blazed for two hours. The blast demolished the J. A. Firsching textile machinery manufacturing plant and shattered windows in a seven-block area.

The injured, none of whom was considered hurt seriously, were not in the plant, but in neighboring buildings.

A house across the street was blown apart and a tavern at the rear of the plant was wrecked.

A man who emerged from the latter building said another man had been there with him and police were searching the ruins.

The factory owner told Fire Chief Leo R. Barry that he knew of nothing explosive in the building, and the fire chief said he had not yet determined the cause.

Mother, 5 Children Die As Stove Blows Up

By The Associated Press

NEVADA, Mo., Feb. 22—A mother and her five children, ranging from eight months to nine years of age, burned to death today when they were trapped in one room of their home following a heating stove explosion.

The victims of the fire were: Mrs. Betty Graham, wife of a Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad employe; Ollie Lee, 9, Wayne, 7, Freda, 4, Marjorie, 2, and Mary Sue, eight months old.

Charles Graham, the husband and father, was in a critical condition. He suffered burns over his entire body in attempting to reach his wife and children.

He told firemen that the explosion followed his attempt to start a fire in the living room heating stove by using kerosene.

Concentrated Acids Blamed for Fatal Los Angeles Blast

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22—Chemical experts agreed today that a 300-gallon mixture of chemicals equivalent to 3,600 pounds of explosive virtually as violent as nitroglycerin caused the downtown Los Angeles explosion which killed 15 and injured 158 Thursday.

A mixture of perchloric acid and acetic anhydride was the lethal potion which disintegrated the O'Connor Electro-Plating plant, wrecked nearly a block of buildings and rattled a square mile of the city, said Police Chemist Ray Pinker, Capt. Carl Halter of the fire department arson squad and G. L. Cheney, analytical chemist.

Workmen still searched today for two others still missing.

The three said the blast, which caused damage in the area estimated at $1,500,000 by fire officials, was equivalent in explosive force to that of a wartime one-ton aerial blockbuster bomb.

Capt. Halter said the mixture of the two chemicals was first used at the plant last September to put a high shine on aluminum articles.

He said the process apparently was devised by Dr. Robert M. Magee, 35, a graduate of California Institute of Technology.

Morrow County Maple Sugar Camps Get Ready To Open When Sap Starts To Flow

By AUSTIN E. SHOWMAN

Operators of between 100 and 150 maple syrup camps in Morrow county are awaiting the high sign from the weatherman to open their camps for the 1947 season.

A few of the camps in Morrow county, which annually produces more maple syrup than any other county in central Ohio, opened for a few days during a warm spell several weeks ago, according to Elwood Davis, Morrow county agricultural agent, but a majority of them still are waiting for a break in the weather. Freezing and thawing weather is best for a good flow of sap, the county agent pointed out and what Morrow county's maple syrup production will be this year will depend entirely on the weather.

Season of Sap Flow

The average maple sugar season is the latter part of February and the first part of March. As soon as the maple buds start to swell the sap flow is cut off.

The average size of sugar camps in Morrow county is about 300 buckets, with one and sometimes two buckets to a tree, Mr. Davis said. The largest camps will maintain approximately 500 buckets.

During the boom season of the sap flow, crews operate on a 24-hour schedule, gathering the sap and boiling it down in large vats in the woods. The syrup must weigh 11 pounds to the gallon.

Morrow county's annual maple syrup production is estimated by the county agent at 25,000 gallons and producers of the sticky liquid cannot begin to supply the demand. Practically all the syrup produced is sold directly by the producer to persons who come to the county for it. The syrup has been selling for approximately $3.30 a gallon under OPA ceilings and there are conflicting reports as to whether or not price restrictions still prevail this year. Without restrictions, the syrup might sell for as high as $5 a gallon, Mr. Davis said.

Thirty for One

It takes approximately 30 gallons of sap to produce one gallon of syrup, the county agent pointed out, and in a good season's run two trees will produce about a gallon of syrup.

There is no fanfare connected with the maple syrup season in Morrow county, such as Geauga county's maple festival. Maple trees in Morrow county are rapidly being bought off for timber and the trees are not being replaced. Mr. Davis predicts that in another ten years, there will be very little syrup produced there.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt."
Matt. 26:39.

THESE are words which Jesus uttered when praying in the garden of Gethsemane. He resigned to the will of His Father. God's will should be our will also.

His will should be our guide. Our thoughts should be according to His will. He knows the intent and purpose of the heart. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Jesus." Phil. 2:5.

We should speak only the words He would have us speak. The Bible tells us that men shall give account in the judgment for every idle word spoken.

We should act as God should have us act. "I will follow the steps of Jesus" should be the desire of the Godly Christian soul.

God's will for us is always for our good. We lose much in getting away from His will. God's will should be our joy. Ps. 1:2: "But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in His law doth he meditate day and night."

Capt. Proske Teaches Tigers To Say 'Mama'

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

Hal Boyle

NORTH MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22—The only man I know who can make a tiger say "Mama" by playing it like an accordian is Capt. Roman Proske, the internationally known wild animal trainer.

He does it by working a full grown tiger's jaws back and forth with his barehands which produces a reluctant "Ma-a-a — Ma-a-a" from the striped murderer.

Proske also dances with some of his tigers — he says he's the only man in the world who can —but has given up putting his head in their mouths. One clamped shut on his face once, and since then the captain has specialized in other feats.

"The people didn't appreciate it anyway," he said. "They like flashy acts with the animals running and snarling and a lot of blank pistols being fired."

Son of a staff officer for Emperor Franz Josef, Proske ran away from his Vienna home at 14 to go with a circus. For 34 years now the "big cats"—lions and tigers—have been his love. Stripped, his powerful body looks as if a number of hand grenades had gone off in his pockets. The scars are souvenirs of seven maulings by his pets, for which he holds no grudge.

The captain now operates the only tiger farm in America at his North Miami zoo. He has managed to hand-raise five of seven cubs, a delicate task since they die easily. Zoos and circuses pay him $1,500 for a cub.

Proske says he dislikes most American circus wild animal acts because he believes the trainers control their beasts only through fear and brutality, and because circus audiences appreciate only showy stunts.

"They prod the cats in to the ring and they have to prod them out, because they are frightened," he said. "But they should not be afraid. I have found they learn 99 per cent faster when they have no fear, and you teach them through their own curiosity.

"They must respect you and understand you. They should never fear you."

Works Alone in Ring

The captain calls animal trainers who crack whips, fire guns and flourish chairs "furniture movers." He works alone in the ring with nothing but a light riding crop. He said it is much more dangerous to work with either tigers or lions alone than to mix them together in a cage.

"When lions and tigers are in a cage together they watch each other instead of looking for a chance to leap at you," he said.

Proske also deflated the use of perches in circus acts, which he said look spectacular to outsiders — but actually are there to make the trainer feel safer.

"Any trainer knows that a tiger or lion can't crouch and leap at him from a small perch because it is physically impossible. When my animals aren't performing, they lie on the ground and wait their turn."

This calls for alertness, Proske said, because the animals can crouch and spring in a fraction of a second.

Has Unique Stunt

The captain has a unique stunt in which he gives fresh meat to two tigers, then forces them to back away while he picks it up and hands it to a third tiger. Audiences only applaud mildly at his feat Proske considers his masterpiece — ten times harder than to teach an animal to leap through a flaming hoop.

"Only a man who understands how difficult it is to take food from a wild animal and give it to another can appreciate this," he said. "And how many people like that are in a circus audience?"

Proske said no full grown wild animal could ever be trusted because "the Creator gave him the hunting instinct and only the Creator can take it away.

"A bear is less to be trusted than a tiger or lion. The cats always give some indication before they spring — they have to bunch the body. But a bear—no. His head always moves back and forth and when he wants you he just sticks out his paw and grabs you.

"But it is only his nature. You can not blame him. The hardest thing for wild animals to learn? It is to like a human being."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Throat Disorders

For most types of sore throat, penicillin is the best of remedies, or would be, if it could be kept in contact with the tissues of the throat long enough to kill germs causing the disorder. In the past this has been the problem. Penicillin lozenges and tablets have both been tried, but they dissolve so quickly when placed in the mouth or under the tongue that the effects of the penicillin are too fleeting to do much good, in most cases.

Today, however, we have penicillin in a new form—as a powder or snuff. According to Drs. Richard G. S. Meadley and Harold F. Barnard of London, it is most effective when used in this way for the treatment of throat conditions.

The penicillin is mixed with sulthathiazole and is kept in a small bottle. A small amount of the mixture is poured onto a piece of paper two inches square, which is creased from one corner to the other. With the head back and one nostril closed with a finger, the mixture is poured from the paper into the other nostril while the patient sniffs it in. The procedure is then repeated on the other side.

The mixture is slowly carried back by the little hair-like structures in the nose known as cilia until it reaches the throat and back surfaces of the tongue. Swallowing and movements of the tongue then bring some of it forward.

Tests carried out by these physicians showed that penicillin was still present from one to four hours after the use of this stuff. One advantage of this method of treatment is that it brings the penicillin in contact with the tissues of the nose, the back part of the nose, the openings of the sinuses and the middle ear.

About 27 patients with acute tonsilites were treated with this snuff while 30 others were used as controls and were treated in other ways. In those treated with the penicillin mixture the relief of symptoms was rapid whether the infection was due to streptococci or to Vincent's organisms which cause trench mouth. Those treated with the penicillin made more rapid recoveries and could return to their usual work on an average of two days sooner than the patients treated in other ways.

This looks like the answer to a good many cases of severe sore throat. The treatment is simple, without danger or inconvenience to the patient and far more rapid than any we have had in the past.

English Churchman Hits Movie Buffoon Portrait

By The Associated Press

OXFORD, ENG., Feb. 22—A Church of England official said today that Hollywood usually portrays an Anglican vicar "as a bit of buffoon" and suggested his church establish there a liaison office like the Roman Catholics'.

Rev. Brian Hessian said the Hollywood portrayals "on a mass scale inculcate the idea that we Church of England clergymen are pretty poor fish." Mr. Hessian is an Aylesbury vicar and chairman of "Bible Films," a production organization of the Church of England (the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States)

He said the Catholics, although a minority in America, were the active and politically alert church group. "Whenever any script refers to religion, the producer is sought out with the result that in every case the (Catholic) priest and the services are beautifully presented," he said.

COUNTY PREACHING MISSION CONCLUDED

Service at Wesley Church Ends Series of Sermons.

Closing service of the Marion County Preaching mission, sponsored by the Methodist Men's association of the county, was held last night at Wesley Methodist church here, with a youth rally preceding. The preaching mission service drew an attendance of about 200, and there were approximately 60 Methodist Youth Fellowship members at the rally meeting. As his final message of the series on the theme of stewardship, Rev Wilbur A. Vorhis preached on "A Steward Is Personally Adequate."

The young people's rally was held in the recreation room of the church and Rev. Eldred Johnston of Central Christian church led games and group singing

For the worship service, Rev. H McAdow, host pastor, presided Rev. Ralph Knoop of Prospect read Scripture and Rev. W. S Dibert of New Bloomington offered prayer. George Schertzer, representing the laymen's group, spoke on the value of the week's services, with cooperation of all of the Methodist churches, J. L Meredith led singing, the host choir sang a special number, and Rev Henry Maag of the Prospect Street church in Marion, pronounced benediction

Rev Vorhis brought out the idea that no persons is complete in himself, but must be supplemented by "something beyond," without which life is meaningless Man cannot stand by himself; he cannot build a house without the assistance of things and substances. As this is true in a material sense, so it is spiritually Each man must have an "extension of himself in God" if he is to be adequate personally, he declared.

DR. RICE TALKS TO FAMILIES

Many Respond to Service Challenge; Tonight's, Sunday's Topics Announced.

In answer to a challenge by [illegible] John R. Rice in evangelistic services last night to "take Joshua's vow, 'As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord,' (Joshua 24:15)," scores of men throughout the Star auditorium [illegible] service of the Rice [illegible] campaign last night, [illegible] family night, drew an attendance of 594.

Subject of Dr. Rice's sermon [illegible] "Father, Mother, Home and Heaven," and he used the passage from the book of Joshua as his text. About 50 copies of his book, "Bible Facts About Heaven," were presented families [illegible] had all members present. It was also Scout night and members of Boy and Girl Scout troops were present. Girl Scout Troop No. 24 from George Washington school sang. Rev. L. D. Parish of [illegible] offered prayer.

No "Double Standard"

Dr. Rice brought out four [illegible] in his message concerning the family. According to the Bible plan, he declared, a Godly home centers around a Godly man, and man ought to set the example in moral matters. There is no Bible reason for a double standard of morals, one for men and another for women, he contended. "Any man who leaves it to his wife to take the children to church, to give thanks at the table, to direct family worship and to teach the children the Bible, is a slacker, a shirker, and is not fit to have a good home," he maintained.

Following an invitation, six persons made profession of faith.

Tonight's Theme

Tonight will be Young People's night and Dr. Rice will speak on "The Scarlet Sin and the Roads That Lead to It." He will discuss the influence of various forms of entertainment and of "petting" on juvenile delinquency. Every one present more than 15 years of age and unmarried will receive a copy of Dr. Rice's book "Petting and the Scarlet Sin," it was announced.

Two services will be held tomorrow, at 2:30 p. m., and at the regular evening hour. Subject for the afternoon sermon will be "The Man Who Made Money His God, Who Called the Wicked His Brethren, Whose Religion Was a Joke to His In-Laws, and Who Let His Town Go to Hell." Evening subject is listed as "When Skeletons Come Out of Their Closets and When Chickens Come Home to Roost at the Last Judgment." Monday night Dr. Rice will take as "rest night," with no service at the auditorium, then the second week of the campaign will begin Tuesday night which will be designated as Sunday school night again.

Churches which are dispensing with evening services tomorrow and next week in cooperation with the union evangelistic meetings include the following: Calvary, Oakland and First Evangelical United Brethren, Trinity Baptist, and Fite Memorial and Emmanuel Baptist, First Church of the Brethren and Christian and Missionary Alliance.

DIGGING OUT IN ENGLAND. According to an old saying "an Englishman's house is his castle." But now it's his igloo, as demonstrated by this housewife whose only exit from her Peak Forest, England, home is a tunnel cut through a snowdrift that has buried the house. The worst winter blizzards Britishers can recall not only has cut villages off from food, fuel and power, but it has created a national economic crisis.

What's smart for '47's Buick

THAT grille's as fresh and fashion-worthy as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors — the rich sheen of chaste chrome — the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet—that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always—and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back —and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveliness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning; at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so — why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so — get your order in now!

Canning to Mountbatten

WITH a little luck, British imperial rule in India will last exactly 90 years—from 1858 when the crown took over the country from the British East India Co., to 1948 when the crown is committed to withdraw. Before 1858, India had been exploited by the British and others in various degrees since 1600, when Queen Elizabeth chartered the East India Co., whose subsequent operations were so successful—and so corrupt—that two and a-half centuries later it was absorbed into the empire.

The Attlee government's announcement of British withdrawal from India after three and a-half centuries recalls the statement made by Lord Canning, who became the last representative of the East India Co. and the first representative of the British crown. Leaving England for his post of duty, he said he hoped for a peaceful term of office but could not forget that "in the sky of India . . . a small cloud may arise, no larger than a man's hand, but which growing larger may at last threaten to burst and overwhelm us with ruin."

Lord Canning's small cloud has been growing larger for upward of a century. But in 1947 it is not so much the size of the cloud in India that matters as it is the relatively smaller ability of Great Britain to deal with its consequences. As Marshal Wavell hands over his viceroy's post to Lord Mountbatten, who will preside over the liquidation of British rule, the once-mighty British empire is feeling the effects of two exhausting wars.

It may be suspected that in this, as in many other things, Britain is hoping for a breathing spell, to give it new strength for trials to come. It even may be suspected that in this, as in some other things, Britain is hoping for a change of the luck which has been running against it. The scheduled withdrawal from India, in this respect, couldn't happen at a better time.

The United States has gained control of the Pacific, eliminating the Japanese menace to Indian security—a menace so formidable that in 1941 and 1942 invasion was a distinct threat. It is unlikely that Russia will be able to make any inroads while India is embroiled in civil war, which is a virtual certainty; or if India somehow avoided civil war, it is unlikely that Russia would be able to offer any attractive alternative to the political independence which then would be in prospect.

There is likely to be a hiatus in foreign responsibility for India which will give Great Britain a breathing spell and may give India some needed experience in the complications of self-government. During this hiatus, if it occurs, it will be easy to forget that India must continue to be the responsibility of a stronger foreign power in the event an aggressor nation attempts to occupy it against its will. It will be easy to forget that the British know more about India than any other people and that India still must look to them in trouble.

Independence is a state that must be earned. It is doubtful if the Indians, divided by religion, race, prejudice, language and ignorance, have earned independence. It can only be said in 1947 that the British, handicapped by the evil done in the past, weakened by the evil of the present and confused by the evil foreseeable in the future, have earned a respite.

Planes or Missiles?

EXPERIMENTS with jet-propelled planes raise the question of what could be the military value of these spectacular juggernauts.

So far, their only practical use is limited reconnaissance. Under the proper circumstances, they will give a pilot a quick look—a very quick look—at territory which might not be visible by other means.

Beyond that, jet planes have no practical value, because they are essentially missiles—so fast that a bullet cannot be fired from them nor a bomb dropped with any accuracy. A Navy Tigercat actually caught up with bullets fired from it and was damaged by them, yet planes faster than the Tigercat already are winging over experimentation fields.

For all the glowing reports of planes approaching the speed of sound, the combat planes in use on V-J Day are still the most effective ones available. It may be that what was at first thought to be a further development of the airplane as a weapon of war may really be the airplane's successor—the pilotless, jet-propelled guided missile.

Courts and the Bureaus

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Court in CAB Case Limits Bureaucratic Rule.

LAST week the United States circuit court of appeals for the fifth district (The Gulf States and the Canal Zone) handed down a decision which, in a significant way, limited bureaucratic rule in this country.

The decision held that the courts may review an order of the civil aeronautics board which denied the Waterman Steamship company a certificate to engage in air transportation. The denying order was approved by the President. The question was whether such an order could be reviewed by the court. Now the merits of the controversy between the company and the CAB may be fully reviewed by the courts. This decision of the circuit court of appeals may at long last be the opening wedge toward breaking the tight controls of administrative boards and commissions.

Far-Reaching Effect

The Waterman case deeply concerns practically all American shipping lines which are eager to add air service to their regular shipping activities. It coincidentally concerns all American air lines which, under the order of the CAB, enjoyed the advantage of limited competition.

The Waterman controversy is of long standing. The company's plan to engage in air service was originally encouraged by the government. In 1939, growing war tension brought to the Caribbean area intense activity to strengthen the defenses of the Canal and the Gulf Coast. This greatly increased the need for transportation facilities to Puerto Rico. The Waterman company had been operating a fleet of freight vessels with a limited passenger service. The governor general of Puerto Rico, as well as the Army and Navy, asked the company to increase its passenger service. The company proposed to supplement its ship service by air, which could be done much more quickly. It applied to the CAB for permission to fly between New Orleans and San Juan. No action was taken. After Pearl Harbor, all hearings were suspended for the reason that we were at war.

One Denied, One Approved

Shipping companies point to the fact that they have offices everywhere, that they have trained personnel familiar with foreign conditions, that they have invaluable contact with foreign governments and businesses and that they are familiar with foreign laws, regulations and practices. The CAB has not flatly denied these advantages.

The reason believed to be behind the CAB decision is the danger of monopolistic trends in transportation. This is an ideological point of view held by the most New Dealers, some of whom fantatically adhere to the Brandeis "curse of bigness" theory. But the CAB carefully avoids debating this and has not given it as its reason for its policy.

Conflict of Principles

If, as is believed, the objection is the largely theoretical point of monopoly, the government is restraining freedom of trade with one agency, while the departments of state and commerce are preaching the doctrine of more foreign trade. The real way to get more foreign trade is to facilitate the means of transportation. This and not the tariff is the crux of the situation.

Fully to achieve the end of opening the courts to appeals from bureaucracy will require legislation. But much can be done by a more liberal attitude in the courts themselves.

Sales Resistance Comes Out of Hibernation

A New York drug store displays a sign, All Nickel Candies Now Five Cents.

Who said Republican budget cuts were the only visible milestones along the road back to normalcy?

With nickel candies again selling for five cents, the optimists may dream of a sweeter tomorrow, when they'll be available in pre-war size as well as price.

Increasingly, there are indications that not only is the war over but that the duration also is subsiding. Just last week a national merchants association was advised to instill in its sales personnel the strange, new doctrine that the customer is sometimes right.

This promises to be a most interesting spring to economists and horticulturalists alike, what with the budding trees, flowers and sales resistance.

Especially welcome is the return to the top of the counter of the five-cent candy bar. With even juke boxes charging a dime, there was only one thing left to do with a nickel . . . and who wants to spend his life in a pay station?

The Divided Republicans

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—The most important vote yet taken in the present congress was that by which the senate Republican conference decided to oppose the more suicidal economies in the defense establishment. It is unfortunate that the roll call was not recorded, and that even the tally, which stood at twenty-two to nineteen, was not made public. For this vote provided the first measure of the deepening division within Republican ranks, which is quite certain to develop into one of the major political phenomena of the next two years.

Voting with the majority were such senators as Morse of Oregon, Aiken of Vermont and Tobey of New Hampshire, who have inherited the role of old "Sons of the Wild Jackass"—the Republican insurgents of other days. But this fact is much less significant than the leading role played by Vandenberg of Michigan, and the presence at his side of such Senators as Ives of New York, Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Millikin of Colorado and Hickenlooper of Iowa. These men are distinctly not insurgents.

What then is the gulf that divides them from their colleagues of the minority—Wherry and Butler of Nebraska, Capehart of Indiana, Brooks of Illinois and the others among the nineteen who plumped for national self-indulgence at the risk of something very like national suicide?

Answer Is Easy

The answer is fairly simple and distinctly illuminating. Progressivism, in the sense of support for national economic planning, extensive measures of social welfare, and similar policies, is not a common commodity among Republicans (or Democrats either, for that matter). The division within the Republicans is not between progressives and conservatives. It is between those who know and understand the facts of modern life, and those who do not.

Vandenberg himself, who has been adding to his already impressive influence by acting as a sort of leader of the modernists, is a strangely conservative man. He is openly entertained by his new role, which in such connections as the Lilienthal controversy has lined him up with men of much more left wing views. But this is true, not because he has abandoned his conservatism, but because he has adjusted his conservatism to the conditions prevailing in the year of very doubtful grace, 1947. Precisely the same holds true for the fair-minded Millikin and the able Hickenlooper, who have distinguished themselves at the Lilienthal hearings, and for the others like Lodge, Saltonstall and Ives.

The chief characteristic of Senators like Wherry and Brooks, on the other hand, is a curious conviction that the ghost of the old guard walks again, and a still more envious tendency to take delight in this unpleasing thought.

One or two of these men have improved upon the old models. Brooks for instance, strikes a note of briskness and glittering efficiency, like a cheap but showy plumbing fixture. But at bottom all of this group are Republican old guardsman of the most ancient kind.

Hail from Mid-west

Most of them come from the mid-west. Their presence in the senate is the sign and symbol of the failure of the Mid-Western Republican organizations to reconstruct and modernize themselves, as the Republican organizations have done everywhere else in the country.

The division between the two groups of modernists and backwardlookers is of course not firmly fixed. Probably the modernists attracted their peak vote on the defense issue. On the issue of David E. Lilienthal's confirmation, on labor legislation and on foreign economic policy, the lines will shift. Here one may regard Vandenberg's co-leader, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, as a type-specimen. He stood with Vandenberg on the defense question. He has done his best to convince the old guardsmen of the value of moderation, and he has put forward a limited social welfare program of his own. But although his strong intelligence generally holds him in the middle of the road, his instinctive sympathies are with the old-line party organizations.

Obviously the present division foreshadows the kind of split that will rend the Republican party when it comes time to select a nominee. By the time the convention meets the war will be open and embittered, unless the busy Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York or some other fortunate candidate has so out-maneuvered all rivals that the thing is in the bag.

Meanwhile, an underlying fact should also be noted. The Republican party is still essentially a business men's party. Business opinion did not influence the defense vote very directly.

Magnetic Traction May Keep 'Em Moving

By The Associated Press

LONDON — The Russian embassy publication, Soviet News, reports the latest Soviet automotive development is a streamlined coach drawing its power from a high-frequency cable beneath the road's surface.

Currently on display at Moscow's automobile research institute, the car has an apparatus which picks up the cable's magnetic field and transforms it into mechanical energy.

Demonstrators claim the magnetic-powered car is cheaper to produce and operate than the present automobile. With high-frequency cables laid beneath streets, they say the new vehicle will make both overhead trolley-bus wires and fume-producing automobiles obsolete.

Budget Cuts Only Tentative

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THOSE who happened to read an article of mine which was published a week ago may recall that I criticized Senator Taft because in his Lincoln day speech he neglected to mention the effect on economic stability of uninvested and unspent savings.

I now have a letter from Taft which shows that the omission of this crucial factor was unintentional—the result of a typographical error in the text of his speech as it came from his office to the newspapers. It reads:

"I have read with interest your article this morning in the Washington Post. The word 'wages' in my Charleston speech was a misprint which I did not catch until I reached Charleston. As delivered in Charleston, the third balance was between 'saving and consumption.' While I think there has been some overemphasis on the excess of savings, I have always felt that the 1939 depression was caused in part by the fact that savings became so excessive that money was directed into investment and speculation instead of being spent for consumers' goods."

I may add that in the text of the speech as printed after delivery in the Congressional Record, the error has been corrected. Therefore, it cannot be said that Taft is unaware that there is a problem of savings. That may make a lot of difference as the search for the solution of that extraordinary difficult problem proceeds.

Though the question of the budget now before Congress is not unrelated to it, there are other considerations which have to be taken into account more immediately.

The controversy which has risen over the president's budget arose from the fact that under the law—the "legislative reorganization act of 1946"—the four money committees of the two houses are required jointly to report "a legislative budget" of "the estimated over-all federal receipts and expenditures" for the fiscal year beginning July, 1947. This report was due Feb. 15. The report when adopted by the two houses, is supposed to fix "the maximum amount to be appropriated for expenditures.

The administration wishes to fix that amount, at the president's figure, namely, 37½ billions. The Republican majority with some Democratic support wishes to fix it at 31½ billions. Senator Taft and a number of others are proposing to fix it somewhere between 32 and 33 billions.

Congress is in a difficult position because the law requiring this decision is new, and the machinery for operating it efficiently has not yet been set up. Another year the situation will be different. But this year Congress has no evidence before it by which it can decide intelligently what the total appropriation amount is to be. Yet the law compels it to decide. So it must either take the president's figure, approving it without knowing why, or fix its own funds, not knowing why.

If the legislators accept the president's figure, the Republican majority will have reneged, without knowing whether they had to, on their campaign promises to reduce expenditures. If they cut the president's figure blindly, and that is the only way they can now cut it, they may cause serious injury to the national interest.

The dilemma, though embarrassing, is not so serious as it looks. For while the law requires a decision, and then an honest effort to abide by it, it is not, as Senator Bridges pointed out, "an irrevocable action" and "disclosed need could modify it in either direction." Senator Millikin confirmed this view saying that under the reorganization act "we have no alternative but to reach a result based on, let us call it, rough judgment."

This is also the position of Senator Taft, who made it quite clear, for example, that while he wishes now to act as if the item for foreign relief can be cut in half, he knows that he is acting on "the pious hope that the crops in Europe will be sufficiently good" the next summer and "through next winter" and that if they are not, the money he is proposing to cut now may "have to be restored when all the evidence is in."

What this all adds up to is that in fixing a ceiling on appropriations now, Congress is placing the burden of proof on the administration in the hearings which will be held by the appropriation committees But the ablest and most influential leaders are not saying that they will not listen to proof that more money needs to be appropuriated.

Critical Period Ahead

My own guess is that, while in the end congress will insist on many reductions in services that reflect the expansion of government under the New Deal, the total national expenditures in the year beginning July may be as great, and perhaps even greater, than the president's budget. We may spend more money than the president asked for but the allocation of the money may be different.

The next 18 months—the period congress is now considering—will be highly critical. There is at least an even chance that the coming conference of Moscow may show that, in the existing balance of forces in the world, no general settlement can be reached. If that happens, we shall have to spend a lot more money than even the president is asking for.

But even if things go better at Moscow than we can anticipate reasonably now, it is still as certain as anything can be in advance that the position in Britain and the British Empire, and in western Europe and the empires of western Europe, will become highly critical in the fairly near future.

The liquidation of the British Empire, its galloping political and financial insolvency, the developments in the British Isles, in India, in Palestine, in Egypt and in parts of Africa, are approaching a condition where they threaten to become uncontrollable. If they do, an emergency of grand proportions will exist which will make heavy demands upon us, and all our present estimates will have to be revised radically.

Nothing, therefore, can now be certain except that all our estimates are in the highest degree tentative.

The Open Road To the Cross

A Sermonette

By REV. J. B. HOLLOWAY
Pastor of Trinity Baptist Church

Text: "It came to pass, when the time was come that He should be delivered up, He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem."

JESUS had foreknowledge of the cross.

From the day Jesus put away His tools in the carpenter shop at Nazareth and began His Messianic mission there fell across His pathway many times the darkened shadow of a cross. Very early in His ministry He gave evidence of a constantly growing knowledge of that cross. His fellow Jews, always hoping for some manifestation of the promised Messiah, became interested in His methods and His message and asked Him for a sign from heaven. This He declined to do, but did say to them: "Destroy this temple and in three days I will build it up." They did not understand that Jesus was speaking of the "temple of His body" which they subsequently would hang upon a cross and He would raise up again on the third day. It was a sufficient sign of His Saviourhood, but they did not comprehend its significance.

Likewise in His conversation with Nicodemus He gave further expression of this foreknowledge of the cross. Whether Jesus went through the villages of Gallilee or traveled the highways of Judea and led His disciples along the secluded paths beyond the Jordan, there was ever before Him the shadow of the cross.

He had courage to travel the open road to the cross.

Some seven months before the time of His crucifixion He boldly started down the open road that led to Jerusaleum and the inevitable cross. Luke graphically points out that Jesus "set His face to go to Jerusalem" to walk unafraid into the ambush of the hating Scribes and Pharisees. He was determined to go! His face was "set." Mark indicates that He strode ahead of the disciples, throwing caution to the winds. "They were in the way," he says, "going to Jerusalem and Jesus went before them. And they were amazed." Usually He walked in the midst of them. They had warned Him of impending danger in Jerusalem, of Herod's threat upon His life, the reward that had been offered for His arrest, the published ban of the Sanhedrin, and the Jews laying in wait. They were amazed at His audacity and lagged behind. They were afraid of this determination which they had seen in the face of their Master, this unconquerable resolve which blazed in His eyes. But Jesus was not afraid. He had known all along that a cruel cross awaited Him and He would not be deterred in facing it. He was at last upon the open road on which there were no detours and there was no turning back. He was making haste to do the Father's will.

He was willingly obedient to the Father's will.

In that complete yielding to the holy will of God, Jesus found power to overcome any natural shrinkage of the human spirit from the ignominy and shame which the cross would bring, victory over the painful death of crucifixion and the grave, and final exaltation to His rightful place beside His Father's throne. So by our yielding to His Divine Will in all things, we find strength to bear our crosses as we journey along the open road of life.

Must Jesus bear the cross alone and all the world go free?
No, there's a cross for everyone,
a cross for you and me.

By The Associated Press

WARSAW — Poland is getting nine machine factories from the Russian zone of occupation in Germany as part of her share of war reparations, says the newspaper Rzeczpospolita.

The factory equipment includes 2,300 lathes. Five factories produce aircraft parts, two for metals and another produces chemicals.

If railway accidents were the only possible cause of death and if a passenger travelled 100 miles a day on American railroads, his life expectancy would be 20,000 years.

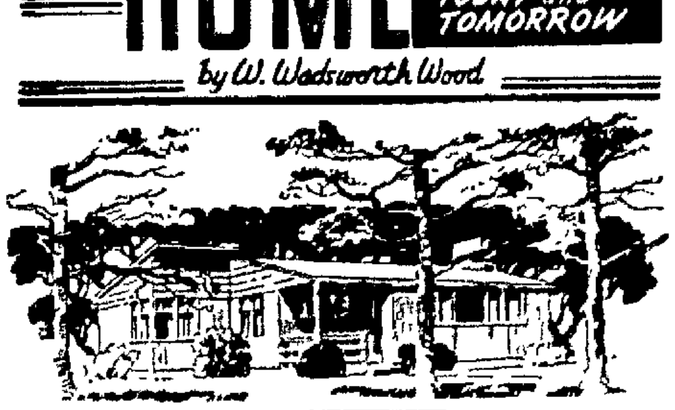
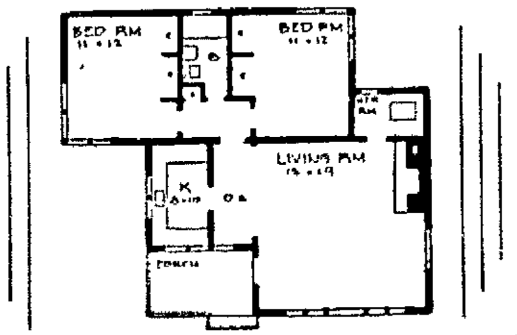
New Home Plan Offers One of Latest Ideas in Low Cost Housing

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood





Here is a home which embodies each one of the very latest suggestions for economical low cost housing

The main bulk of the house offers a tremendous living room with a fireplace, off which there is a dining alcove connected to a very modern small kitchen There is a utility or heating room immediately off the living room. Primarily this constitutes the entire body of the house because built-in bunks may be placed in the living room

Future additions can make this plan include two good-sized bedrooms and a full bathroom Each of these bedrooms offer two closets apiece, immediate access to the bathroom, and the door which opens out rearwards from the living room of the main house connects immediately with either the bath or the bedrooms

This plan may be executed economically with standard prefabricated panels, with orthodox siding or shingles, or with stucco over metal lath.

Although this building is planned with an eye to economy of construction, no one will deny that it is a beautiful small house, perfectly at home in the deep woods or on the shore of a lake The architect has given careful consideration to the roof structure which is plain shed-type and to the use of standard window sash. The small roofed porch with simple rail is an addition which can be added cheaply

There is only only one item in the entire plan here which really runs into money and that is the large fireplace in one corner of the living room Nevertheless by the use of a standard metal form and by using pre-cast concrete forms, the tremendous fireplace and chimney can be obtained at low cost.

A house of this type is intended for the owner of a truly rural plot It can be situated in the forest or on the beach It may be built in a block form without either bedrooms and baths and may be expanded as finances permit

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Stained Ceiling

Q One of our calcimined ceilings is in bad condition, showing water stains The surface is peeling and flaking off. How can I do over the ceiling? I must do the work myself.

A Remove the calcimine with warm water and a large sponge, making sure to get it all off Wash the stained part with a solution of trisodium phosphate (large paint store), about a cupful in a quart of water, and rinse well with clear water When dry, seal in the stained part of the plaster with shellac thinned with four times as much denatured alcohol Put this on in a thin coat so that there will be no gloss when dry. Then apply a good grade of calcimine, following directions on label

Q I would like to store my collapsible baby buggy either in the attic which is hot in summer, or the basement, which is not damp at any time Which place would be suitable and should the buggy be open or folded? Should the leather and chrome trim be treated with any wax or cream?

A. I presume the "leather" is not a genuine leather, but an imitation First clean with a cloth dampened with mild soapsuds and follow with cloths wrung out of clear water Wipe dry Then apply a very thing coat of petroleum jelly and rub into the surface Wipe off any excess Instead of the jelly, you could use paste wax, applied in a thin coat Let dry and rub well After cleaning the wheels, wipe lightly with petroleum, but do not let it get on the tires. The chrome will not need special treatment Cover the buggy with something to keep off dust Store in a cool, dry place The attic may be all right in winter time, but I would not recommend the basement, even though is may seem dry Next summer you had better find a place that will be cooler than the attic The buggy top should be left stretched open

Painting Venetian Blinds

Q. What kind of paint can be used on the slats of Venetian blinds"

A Use an interior semi-gloss paint

Linoleum Protected By Wax Application

Linoleum in kitchens—especially light colored linoleum — can be well protected with properly applied wax

First, clean the surface of the linoleum thoroughly with soap and water to remove all traces of greasy film, or dirt, and dry thoroughly Then promptly, before doing any cooking, apply a thin coat of paste floor wax A non-rubbing type of wax may be used, if desired When the wax coating is dry and hard, apply another thin coat of wax

For polishing paste wax, an electric polisher or a polishing weight are worth while conveniences Proper waxing and polishing can greatly ease the cleaning of linoleum.

HOME REPAIR SEEN AS YEAR'S BIG JOB

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Getting the nation's homes back into up-top shape is going to be one of the biggest jobs for the construction industry.

Between $2,400,000,000 and $3,000,000,000 is expected to be spent on repairing single-family nonfarm houses this year, according to the Tile Council of America

This bill will include roof repairs to more than 2,345,000 homes and the replacement or overhauling of heating equipment in some 2,037,000, the council estimates.

Still another 1,793,000 houses will have showers installed, bathrooms tiled or repairs made to water piping, according to the report.

Painting is by far the most common home repair, the study showed. Either the exterior or some room of the interior is painted in almost a third of the nation's single-family home year

The number of single-f nonfarm homes in the U States has risen from 17,51 in 1940 to an estimated 19,83 as of November, 1946, the T Council states.

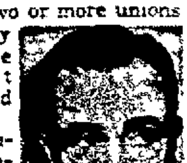
Labor Runs Into Snag Trying To Alibi Jurisdictional Strike



James Marlow

B JAMES MARLOW

INGTON, Feb. 22—Or- our has a hard time de- s jurisdictional strikes. strikes caused by a dis- een two or more unions en they ove the e just by and ent Tru- nts con- o ban Congress of do- Labor dislike C.O President Murray eek suggested he and AFL ent William Green get to- o bar them.

made his suggestion at e labor committee hearing airman, Senator Taft, Ohio n, took a dim view o.

d he thought congress do something about ban- jurisdictional strikes In ew It was too late for at could be done if and Green got together and AFL are just asso- of unions, each of which endent

ould Only Recommend all Murray and Green would be to ask their AFL unions to promise ave jurisdictional strikes ne another.

an explanation of the onal strike:

strike between two or ons over things like

Trying to get workers in a plant to join one union instead of another, one union claiming the right to do work claimed by another.

There are two kinds of jurisdictional disputes

1. Inter-union. That's between two unions of opposite parent organizations For example A CIO union fighting with an AFL union. This occurs frequently.

2. Intra-union. That's between two unions of the same parent organization. For example between two AFL or two CIO unions

Rare Among CIO Unions

A jurisdictional strike almost never occurs between CIO unions It happens most often between AFL unions The reasons:

CIO unions are organized by industries. For instance all steel workers are members of the steel workers union, no matter what kind of steel work they do

So any squabble between groups of steel workers is settled within the union since all of them are members of the same union

But AFL unions are organized by crafts instead of by industries as in the CIO Which means

Men doing one kind of work are within one AFL union men doing another kind are in another AFL union For example

In a big plant the carpenters are all in a carpenters union, all the metal workers are in a metal workers union

Most AFL jurisdictional strikes occur over disputes between the carpenters and the metal workers and over something like this Should this particular job be handled by the carpenters or the metal workers?

The most publicized recent jurisdictional strike was that of the AFL stagehands and carpenters in Hollywood

They are fighting over the right to build some movie sets, each claiming it should do the job

But jurisdictional strikes are only a minor part of labor strikes in general

The government's bureau of labor statistics has gathered figures on jurisdictional strikes, although they're months old

In the first six months of 1946 there were 2 186 strikes for all reasons involving 2 996,000 workers

But only 92 of them were jurisdictional strikes—or 2 per cent of the total—involving only 184 900 workers

But at the same time:

There were 1 082 strikes—or 84 per cent of the total—involving 2 513,000 workers caused by disputes between unions and employers over wages and hours

CUBAN POLICE PROBE LUCIANO ACTIVITIES

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Feb. 22 — Cuban secret police sought leads today on the activities of Charles "Lucky" Luciano, deported New York vice overlord, in an investigation ordered after the United States cut off narcotics shipments to Cuba on the ground that Luciano's presence in the country might lead to "diversion of the drugs."

Interior Minister Alfredo Requeno told Secret Police Chief Benito Herrera yesterday to determine how Luciano, who was deported from the U. S. to Italy, had entered Cuba and how he was occupying himself.

Secret police said that they knew Luciano was in Cuba and that he had been seen frequently at the race track in Havana, though it had not been learned where he was staying.

The ban on further supplies of narcotics to Cuba was issued in Washington by Harry J. Anslinger, federal narcotics commissioner, Julian Solorzano, secretary of the Cuban presidency, sought to discount the possibility that Luciano's presence could lead to diversion of imported drugs. He pointed out that the government recently decreed that all shipments of narcotics to Cuba be brought in through the port of Havana.

Authorities here stated that if Luciano was found to have entered Cuba illegally, he would be deported at once, presumably to Italy.

Luciano, former top man of New York vice rackets, was sent to prison in 1936 for 30 to 50 years. Last year he received a pardon from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey—who as district attorney had prosecuted Luciano—and was sent back to his native Italy. Recently, however, reports reached Washington that Luciano had found a haven in Cuba.

GROUP HEARS U. S. HAS LOST QUARTER OF LAND

Another Quarter of Arable Land Going, Speaker Says.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—America already has lost one quarter of its arable land, and is in the progress of losing another quarter.

Such was the message left here today following yesterday's meeting of the Friends of the Land society which heard Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, of Washington, U. S. conservation chief and other prominent speakers deliver their viewpoints about soil erosion, nutrition and neglect.

Sharing the program with Bennett were Dr. Jonathan Forman, of Ohio State university; Louis Bromfield, author and Ohio farmer, and Walter E. Christenson, editor of the Omaha World-Herald.

In the process of "building America," Bromfield said, one-fourth of America's good agricultural land had been destroyed beyond use except as possible forest land. The other fourth, he said, was on the way out and the "rest x x x is subject to the same soil erosion that has created such havoc with our agricultural and national economy."

RELIGIOUS TRAINING AIDS B.I.S. BOYS

Fewer Return as Violators, Chaplain's Report Shows.

An annual report released today by the chaplain of the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster reveals that boys given religious training and then referred to a home town church, were four times as likely to succeed as those who showed no interest in religion.

The report is of more than usual interest in Marion since the state welfare department now is working on plans to open a branch of the B.I.S. at Scioto Ordnance Plant sometime this year.

Chaplain James L. Keyser reported that of the 583 boys who were members of the Chapel on the Hill, before their release since 1945, less than ten per cent had returned, whereas the percentage of parole violators for the entire enrollment was 37 per cent.

The chaplain credited the Ohio Council of Churches with a follow up service inaugurated in May 1945, by which information is sent to the boys' home church, which makes every possible effort to aid in assisting the boy concerned, in establishing himself as a worth while citizen.

"Two hundred seventy-four boys were thus referred in 1946," Chaplain Keyser reported. "Of the total of 583 referred since 1945, only 57 or less than 10 per cent have been returned to this institution as of this date; normally some 37 per cent of our paroled boys are returned for further training; a comparison here would indicate that the boys who became interested in our religious program are 'four times' as likely to succeed while on parole as are those who have no such interest."

Stars Coming On Marion Bill

Fred McMurray, Walter Pidgeon and Marjorie Main in Pictures Here.

"Murder, He Says" starring Fred MacMurray and Helen Walker with Marjorie Main, Porter Hall, Jean Heather and Peter Whitney, and "Holiday in Mexico" with Walter Pidgeon, Ilona Massey, Jane Powell and Jose Iturbi and Xavier Cugat will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is a fast-moving laugh riot which tells of the Fleagles, a clan of hillbillies bent on murder. They have concocted a poison which makes the victim glow before expiring and Fred is continually trying to avoid such death devices. The latter, photographed in technicolor, has a story which centers on the American ambassador to Mexico and his motherless daughter, who thinks no one can manage her father's affairs but her.

Billed to be shown Tuesday and Wednesday are "The Sign of the Cross" and "Rainbow Island." The former stars Fredric March, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton, and heading the cast in the latter are Dorothy Lamour, Eddie Bracken and Gil Lamb.

"The Sign of the Cross" describes the history of the ancient city of Rome, centering on the persecution of Christians. The latter tells of two ship-wrecked merchant seamen in the South Pacific who come upon an island paradise with another member of their torpedoed ship, where Dorothy Lamour rules as queen.

"Riding the California Train" starring Gilbert Roland, and "The National Barn Dance" with Lulu Belle and Scotty, the Hoosier Hot Shots, the Dinning Sisters and many others of the radio show, will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

The latter, adapted after the famous radio show, the National Barn Dance, has a plot dealing with the early years in radio and describes how a young radio producer attempts to sell the idea of a hillbilly show to an advertising executive.

St. Mary Ends Season With Revenge Victory Over Columbus Rosary

Varsity Posts 45-37 Drubbing; Reserves Take 38-31 Thriller

By GEORGE ROEST

Marion St. Mary saw its regular basketball season end in spectacular fashion last night, downing Columbus Holy Rosary 45 to 37 at the Columbus K. of C. hall.

This was one of the most decisive victories posted over the Columbus parochials this season, Newark St Francis being the only club to amass a greater margin

The local reserves staged a Hollywood finish as they drove from behind to down the host seconds 38 to 31.

Toughest Team for Irish

Columbus Rosary is regarded as the toughest and most polished outfit that the locals have met this season and in an earlier game Rosary won 55 to 44

The Irish capped their season in successful fashion and the record they will carry into the district class B tournament at Westerville next week is 15 wins and five losses.

Drawings Set Monday

Next Monday night drawings for the tournaments will be held and, provided stability has been installed into the Terriers, they should stick around for a long time at this event

Dick Schuler racked up 15 points in last night's tilt which brought his total for the year to 297 and retired the former St Mary scoring record of 294 points in 21 contest. His per tilt average is 14 85.

In breaking this record he hit for 30 per cent of his fielding attempts and 50 per cent of his attempts from the foul line The over-all percentage of Irish hits from the field was 26

Sub Does All Right

Jim Moloney, who relieved Schuler in the fourth period when he was ejected because of the five personal fouls ruling, posted the best average of the night, connecting twice in the four times he shot

Rosary was able to hit for 24 5 per cent of the fielders they attempted and Sonny Wile posted the best average for that outfit connecting for slightly over 42 per cent. Jack Farson, who leads Columbus scorers, hit for 40 per cent in equalling Wile's 10 points

In the reserve tilt St. Mary trailed going into the third quarter then tied things up at 27 all and went on to take their last game of the 1946-47 season.

SO LONG BEAU JACK

Broken Kneecap Spells End of Ring Career.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 22—This being Washington's birthday, and all, you probably wouldn't be very far from the truth if you came right out in meeting today and predicted that the fight game has seen the last of Bouncing Beau Jack, and vice versa.

The Bouncing Beau, himself, summed it up last night as he lay in his Madison Square Garden dressing room waiting for an ambulance to take him to a hospital with a kneecap that had just been broken for the second time in three months The knee had given 'way in the ring as he was being belabored by Tony Janiro, the fancy-boxing youngster out of Youngstown, O., with result that swift Tony chalked up a four-round technical knockout

"The hands are good," the Beau grinned weakly, holding up a fist for photographers, "but the knee's bad."

Boudreau Says McKechnie And Gordon Will Set Tribe on Fire

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz, Feb 22—Manager Lou Boudreau, who predicted a pennant fight for his Cleveland Indians last year and was disappointed by a dismal sixth place finish, cited two reasons today why the Tribe should cause "excitement" in the 1947 American league race

BOUDREAU

Expected to add winning form to last year's punchless Tribal edition are a new second baseman and a cagey grey-thatched veteran in the Indians' 1947 coaching box, said the Cleveland pilot.

"Joe Gordon and Bill McKechnie have added tremendously to our nine," said manager Lou Gordon already has shown all his oldtime form in his workouts here He's ready McKechnie will handle the pitching staff and I know he'll help—especially the youngsters"

Reporting a week early for spring drills, Gordon has shown his old "snap" around the keystone sack Traded by the New York Yankees for Allie Reynolds, Joe repeatedly has asserted that he has been given "a new lease on life" by joining the Indians

Boudreau already has made glowing springtime appraisals of the Tribe's infield and pennant chances, said assistance offered to the Indians' pitching staff and batting power by McKechnie and Gordon would enable the Redskins to "cause excitement" in this year's race.

KENTON, Feb. 22 — Hardin county sheriff Randall Clark and three deputies answered a riot call to Ada Thursday night when some 850 irate basketball fans attempted to crash into the already jam-packed gym of Ohio Northern university

Sheriff Clark stated Friday that several windows in the gym were broken by discontented fans who sought admission after the doors had been locked and that the panes of glass were broken from the main entrance by those seeking admission

The games which were being played in the parochial-exempted village tourney there involved hitherto undefeated Bluffton which lost to Lima St. Rose 50 to 48, and Hicksville which downed Ada, 39 to 22

Sheriff Clark stated that he would station deputies at the gym for the remainder of the tourney.

County Cage Leaders Grab All-Star Team Selections

Nothing succeeds like success, say the coaches in the Marion county basketball league Eight of the ten players chosen for the All-County team for The Star by the loop's mentors were from the four top teams in the final standings.

Three of the players selected for the county dream quintet performed for the co-champion Caledonia crew. Two players were selected from the other co-titlist team, Claridon. Green Camp with a fourth place finish and the only one to defeat Caledonia during the season was honored with two selections.

Pleasant with a third place finish got one of the players on the honor team. The other two selections were from Morral and Kirkpatrick

The three from the Caledonia five were Eugene Freet, Kenneth Comstock and Eugene Fleming From Claridon Jim and Gene Ruth were honored Green Camp placed Lowell Hensel and Dick McLean.

Charles Mayers who set a new county season record with 210 points was the selection from the Pleasant Townshippers. In an earlier report Mayers was accredited with 209, but a recheck of the Pleasant-Green Camp game gave Mayers credit for another foul shot to run the total to 210.

The other two players selected by the coaches were Pete Merritt of Morral and Jim Frank of Kirkpatrick who also surpassed the old scoring record with 206 points The old record had been held by Dick Hord made during two successive seasons in 1945 and 1946

Two of the selections on the All-Star squad were unanimous as all the coaches sending in ballots chose Jim Ruth and Charles Mayers Mayers, Jim Ruth and Freet were repeaters from last year's honor team. Frank made the team in 1945. Seven of the group are Seniors.

Following is the complete team:

Charles Mayers, Pleasant, Junior, 5-11: Jim Ruth, Claridon, Senior, 5-11; Eugene Freet, Caledonia, Senior, 6-3; Kenneth Comstock, Caledonia, Junior 5-11; Eugene Fleming, Caledonia, Sophomore, 6-3; Pete Merritt, Morral, Senior, 5-9; Lowell Hensel, Green Camp, Senior, 5-10, Gene Ruth, Claridon, senior, 5-7; Dick McLean, Green Camp, Senior, 6-0; Jim Frank, Kirkpatrick, Senior, 5-8

Colleges Solve Vet Problem

Commuter Schools Set Up in Pennsylvania To Care for Overflow.

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Fifteen thousand veterans and civilian students are getting college educations in Pennsylvania today, while living as much as 300 miles from campuses of their choice.

The registrants, beginning college careers under unprecedented circumstances were campus overflows from the largest college enrollments in the state's history, estimated at 100 thousand students.

The branch instruction bases, located in areas of greatest need, are operating under the supervision of a committee composed of college presidents and officials of the state Department of Public Instruction.

Sub-committees have established standards so that students can qualify for transfer to institutions of their choices when overcrowded conditions ease.

Only freshmen have diverted to the emergency schools, the majority of them civilians. Regular colleges were asked to give preferential consideration to veterans in accepting resident students.

Classes are being conducted in high schools either at night or immediately after dismissal of public school pupils.

The majority of branch college instructors were loaned by participating institutions, although qualified high school teachers are supplementing some teaching staffs.

Facilities Used.

Where library, laboratory and recreation equipment could not be obtained, public facilities are being used, or colleges are loaning equipment.

The program, established at the direction of Gov. Edward Martin is designed to be eventually self-supporting. The state has loaned $750,000 to cover administrative costs pending the pooling of tuition fees in a revolving fund to cover operating costs.

Half of the $300 tuitions were collected at registration time, while the other half is due at the beginning of the second semester. The program began functioning in mid-October.

Administration Bills.

The Veterans Administration was billed for veterans payments.

Activities fees are expected to boost the total annual cost of attending the off-campus centers to $400, according to director Robert M. Steele, president of the California (Pa.) State Teachers College.

Students were channeled into the centers nearest their homes by colleges to which they originally applied.

Four centers each were located in areas while one each was established at Harrisburg, Lancaster and Bethlehem.

In addition to the "commuter" plan, arrangements have been made by individual colleges to relieve overtaxed institutions and to meet problems posed by the influx of veterans into the schools of higher education.

Many women's colleges have opened their doors for the first time to male students living within commuter distance.

Tilted Floor Saves Many Pigs in Litters

By The United Press

WASHINGTON—Because sows prefer to lie with their backs higher than their bellies and because of a Kentucky farmer's bad luck, thousands of little pigs which otherwise might have died are growing up into prize porkers.

The Department of Agriculture said the farmer's bad luck was the fact that the foundation of his pig farrowing house slipped, throwing the floor on a slant.

A few days later a new litter of pigs was born. Not one was crushed by its mother, as sometimes happens. Succeeding litters likewise reached maturity without accident and the farmer checked more carefully.

He found that the mother sow preferred to lie with her back to the high side of the floor while the clumsy little pigs tended to tumble to the low side. The result was that when the sow decided to lie down, the pigs usually were out of harm's way.

Other farmers began to slant the floors of their farrowing houses deliberately. One reported to the department that he saved an average of 9.2 pigs per litter compared with only 7.2 on an even floor.

The department now is recommending that farmers slant the floors of all farrowing houses. It said that a slope of only an inch-and-a-half to the foot works very well.

The number of ton-miles of freight moved per capita over railroads in the United States rose from 285 in 1867 to 1,863 in 1900 and a high point of 5,341 in 1944.

LOVE'S HORIZON

he and his Chinese friend were plodding toward the boat, never looking back, even when they got into the motor boat which was to take them to a coast guard vessel which later was to transfer them to a warship.

I watched them for a few seconds, feeling still the impress of Hugh's hot lips upon my hand. Then, with the feeling of having closed again a re-opened book, I turned back, and looked into my husband's eyes.

"Poor devil!" he said unexpectedly, and there was real sympathy in his voice. Then, with a look around—we were alone in the car, and protected by shadows—he put his arms around me.

"I don't have to solace myself with your hand, Sweet," he said as he pressed his lips to mine.

Solves Arson Cases, But Method Secret

By The United Press

SPOKANE, Wash.—Fire Marshal James H. (Lone Wolf) Burton has a national reputation among firemen for his ability to solve arson cases, and even his chief does not know how he does it.

The record set by the Spokane fire department is among the best in the country. Repeatedly, the city fire chief has assigned assistants to Burton. They always go back for reassignment, explaining they can't understand what he is doing half the time. He doesn't need or want any help.

Burton was appointed city fire marshal 15 years ago and has sent a record number of firebugs and "insurance thieves" to jail.

HOME ECONOMIST NAMED

BUCYRUS—Appointment of a home economist, Miss Louise Laibe, as a member of the Ohio Power company's staff in this area, was announced today by C. D. Albright, manager of the local offices. Miss Libe will be available in Bucyrus, Tiro, Marengo, Waldo, North Robinson, Savannah and other rural areas in the district for assistance in home economics problems. She was formerly employed in personnel work for the Army air force.

RAIL CREWS STILL CLEARING WRECKAGE

Derailed Cars and Freight Still at Scene.

Wrecking crews of the Erie and New York Central railroads today were still working to clear the wreckage of New York Central freight cars, derailed near Five Points one-half mile west of the state highway route 98 crossing early Tuesday morning.

Although the westbound track on which the wreck occurred was restored within 24 hours after the accident, the 19 cars damaged are still at the scene, NYC officials said today, and claim representatives from the NYC Indianapolis office still are taking inventory to determine the amount of the loss. The three car loads of coal have been cleared away, but most of the other freight remains at the site, railroad spokesmen said.

Cause of the derailment, according to L. A. Champ of Springfield, superintendent of the Ohio Division of the New York Central railroad, was a broken wheel on the twelfth car from the locomotive.

The heaviest rail shipment ever moved is believed to be a piece of oil refinery equipment weighing 188,200 pounds, shipped on two flat cars from St. Louis to Texas in 1938.

Although 300,000,000 bushels of U. S. corn reach big terminal markets every year, about 80 to 85 per cent of the U. S. corn crop is fed to livestock and never leaves the farm.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, I've no doubt," my husband went on, "that Hugh said all you related, but that wasn't all he said, or has been saying. No!" as I opened my mouth to speak—"no confessions. If we don't understand each other by this time about the Hugh Grantlands, and all the rest of the distractions — masculine and feminine—" he cocked an impudent eyebrow at me—" we never will. But we do.

"However," he said. "I'm glad you pulled that stunt. Our son was beginning to get vague ideas, and that isn't so good. I'll be glad when the pride of the army, and his high-born Chinese friend go back to their knitting overseas."

"I won't be sorry either," I said truthfully, but with a feeling of guilt as I remembered my father's horrified exclamation: "Going back means almost certain death!"

Day a Turmoil

The next day was a turmoil of activity. My father should have a private telephone switchboard, I told myself, his calls were so frequent. His armored cars from the New York hideaway, with guards arrived, and Charlie Kent and his taxi were on hand. Uniformed naval officers came and went, and I noticed that Mr. "X" and Hans always were part of their conferences with the Chief.

But my father made an opportunity to tell me of Hugh's work.

"German scientists in Japan have been working on something world-shaking," he said, "something, however, in which we are out-distancing them, although they do not know it. But they did not have the facilities there for completing a certain angle on which they were working, not the main thing, but something contributory and highly valuable.

"Hugh, with his knowledge of German, and Lee Chow with his ability to pose as a Japanese, have been working with those scientists for a year. Then Hugh made them believe that he had contacts here which would enable him to pose as an American secret service man, that he could have the experiments completed here, and could bring the results back with him. A German submarine brought them near the shore, a motor boat completed the journey ,but had an accident, and Lee Chow and Hugh were compelled to wade ashore, almost to their necks.

"Needless to say there will be a tiny flaw in what they take back, making the whole thing useless. They risk discovery and death, but their luck may hold.

"They are going tonight, shortly after the submarine is sent to the bottom of the ocean."

An Early Dinner

After another early dinner, we seated ourselves in the cars and sped to a lonely stretch of beach. To all appearances it was deserted, but from a clump of bushes, two naval officers appeared, and came up to my father.

"The radio has been installed sir," they said. "It is extremely powerful, and we are in constant communication with your F. B. I. man and his helper at the Quogue place."

"Then we don't need to wait any longer," my father said. "Tell them to contact the submarine."

He walked away from the officers who went back into the bushes.

A little later, in the moonlight, something like a cobra's head and neck came up out of the deep water beyond the breakers. Next we saw a squat bit of construction which I knew was a conning tower, supporting the periscope which first had appeared. And, last, the black hulk of the submarine heaved itself to the surface.

From somewhere beyond the bushes to our right, a motor boat with two muffled figures started toward the distant submarine. Then several men came out on the top of the submarine evidently watching the boat which was moving very slowly, as if it had motor trouble.

And then, there came a flash of light so terrific and blinding that I cowered against Dicky, a shaking of ground and air, an eerie screech as of air demons let loose. The next instant, "all hell broke loose,"—Harry Underwood's comment when he regained his breath.

When the rocking waves had subsided, there was no sign of the submarine except — yes — there were floating bits, whether of men or metal, we had no idea.

"Lucky thing for us," my father commented calmly, "that there's an emplacement near Montauk where they've been experimenting with radar-directed artillery fire. This ought to go down as one of their bigger and better experiments."

Even as he spoke, the air appeared filled with oncoming airplanes, and in the distance, coast guard vessels could be seen approaching.

From the car in which Dicky, my father and I had been sitting, Hugh Grantland and Lee Chow rose, and Hugh helped Lee Chow to descend. My father followed them out, and Jack, Harry and Mr. "K" waited to go with them to the beach.

Formal Adieux

They had made their formal adieux to all of us at the farmhouse, and Lee Chow did not speak to anyone as they left the car. But Hugh came back to Dicky, wrung his hand, said "Good-bye", and then, coming to me, raised my hand to his lips with the old world courtesy he sometimes affects. But he did not speak, and the next minute
